

Emily Reviews

Reviews, Giveaways and my life.

Dr. Aurora DeJuliis European Medical Spa Skin Care Products- Review

www.emilyreviews.com

Dr. Aurora DeJuliis was born and raised in Italy. She now lives and works in New Jersey and specializes in skin rejuvenation and anti-aging treatment. Through her work, she gained significant knowledge as to what works best to get a glowing healthy skin. She created a line of skin care products which includes everything from toners to moisturizers, eye care products, serums and more. Her products are packed with natural ingredients that are gentle yet effective to improve skin condition.

For this review, I received 2 products: the Soft Papaya & Pumpkin Masque (2 oz) and the Ultra Soy Peptide Creme (1.7 oz).

The Soft Papaya & Pumpkin Masque makes use of many natural ingredients well known for their health-promoting and healing properties. For example, the papaya enzyme helps to smooth the surface of the skin while the pumpkin seed extract and comfrey health and clarify it. Beeswax and avocado oil ensure that skin stays hydrated while tapioca and Kaolin clay tighten it. It also contains some Japanese green tea which is full of anti-oxidant and can reduce skin irritation and redness.

It's quite amazing to have such a powerful cocktail in a little jar. I was super excited to try this product because after having baby no.2, my skin totally lost its pregnancy glow. It is quite a thick masque and I only used a little bit and spread it in a thin layer over my skin. I rinsed it off after about 20 minutes and... this mask didn't let me down. After using it for a few weeks, I really feel like my skin tone has improved. It also appears fresher and clearer.

The Ultra Soy Peptide Creme is also a potent product that uses the properties of natural ingredients. I'll be honest with you, I was curious about a soy cream because I had never seen it in skin care products. Turns out that soy peptide can help diminish wrinkles and reverse sun damage. It is designed to hydrate skin during harsh winter months and to provide relief during hot summer months making it a versatile cream to be used daily. Not only that but it was found during clinical trials that within 2 months of daily use, people reported a 44.9% reduction of deep wrinkles, a 16.6% lifting effect, and a 14.4% reduction in skin roughness.

I haven't been using for 2 months yet but I can say so far that my skin complexion appears more even and it's softer. I also feel that my skin has a whole looks healthier and more hydrated despite the extra cold weather we've had recently.

Overall, I really like both products. The only downfall I've found is that they contain parabens. Other than that, I think they work really well together. The creme is great for everyday use and the masque can be applied 2-3 times a week. I prefer to use it as needed when I feel my skin could use a little boost. I'm very happy to have found products that work so well to hydrate, clarify and tone my skin especially during the harsh winter months.

Buy It: Head over to Dr. Aurora DeJulius European Medical Spa to see for yourself the great selection on skin care products they offer.

Connect: Don't forget to like Dr. Aurora DeJuliis on Facebook, follow her on Twitter for all the latest news and promotions.